84th Annual International Competition: Photography

May 1 - July 24, 2010

Institute of Contemporary Art, Philadelphia
84th Annual International Competition: Photography

Director’s Letter

On behalf of The Print Center, I am very pleased to present our 84th Annual International Competition: Photography, renowned both for being the oldest such competition in the United States and for the exceptionally high quality works in the resulting exhibitions. This exhibition, which alternates between photography and printmaking, presents a snapshot of emerging ideas, issues and talents from an international pool of artists, and at the grand old age of 84, remains vibrant and compelling.

We are very pleased to have the participation of distinguished guest juror Ingrid Schaffner, who is the Senior Curator at the Institute of Contemporary Art, Philadelphia. We invited Ingrid to bring her point of view to the competition to fulfill our wish to present the most relevant and exciting exhibition possible. Although she has an abiding interest in photography, she is best known as a contemporary art curator, and as such brought a perspective which regarded the submissions in a broad context. Ingrid received a BA from Mount Holyoke College, an MA from New York University’s Institute of Fine Arts and participated in the Whitney Museum of American Art’s Independent Study Program. She joined the ICA in 2001, where her curatorial highlights include Maira Kalman: Various Illuminations (of a Crazy World), 2010; Dirt on Delight: Impulses That Form Clay, 2009; Karen Kilimnik, 2007; and Accumulated Vision, Barry Le Va, 2005. Her photographic exhibitions include a solo show of Philadelphia photographer Eileen Neff: Between Us, 2007; The Photogenic, 2002, which presented photography through its metaphors; Julien Levy: Portrait of an Art Gallery, 1998, a history of the gallery that championed Surrealist photography; Secret Victorians, 1998, which looked at early photographic techniques being deployed in contemporary art; and Constructing Images, 1991, which explored an intersection between photography and sculpture. Ingrid’s other endeavors include Jess: To and from the Printed Page for Independent Curators International, 2007 and Gloria: Another Look at Feminist Art in the 1970s for White Columns, New York, 2003. She has written extensively on modern and contemporary art including Salvador Dali’s Dream of Venus: The Surrealist Funhouse at the 1939 World’s Fair, 2002 and an essay in Questions of Practice: What Makes a Great Exhibition?

Broadly speaking, Ingrid has a particular interest in the role that photography plays in the artistic process, from a conceptual tool and sketching device to fully realized works of art. In selecting The Print Center’s 84th Annual International Competition: Photography, she combined those ideas with an attention to content which addressed larger questions of contemporary culture as well as those which resonated with her own idiosyncratic preferences and interests. The result is an outstanding exhibition which explores current trends and approaches to content, technique and concept.

We are proud to be able to present over $3,000 in purchase, cash, material and exhibition awards to ten artists. The prestigious Philadelphia Museum of Art Purchase Award was selected by Peter Barberie, the Brodsky Curator of Photographs, Alfred Stieglitz Center, Philadelphia Museum of Art and graciously supported by Julie Jensen Bryan and Robert Bryan. Through that award, The Print
Center Collection at the Philadelphia Museum of Art will be enhanced by Jon Horvath’s White Car, 2008.

Emma Wilcox is the recipient of both the solo exhibition award, selected by The Print Center’s Curator, John Caperton, and the Callan/McNamara Award ($500). It is my honor to award The Print Center’s Honorary Council Award of Excellence ($100) to Gillian Pears for 06. The Olcott Family Award ($500) for a digital print is awarded to Amie Potsic for Made in China: Human Rights Violations. It is remarkable that eight years ago when this award was initiated, there were only four pieces from which to make the selection – this year there were only about four pieces that were ineligible! This reminds us just how quickly digital methods have shifted from marginal to mainstream. The Florence Whistler Fish Award ($300) is awarded to Christine Welch for Untitled, from the series Shrines/Altars/Gardens. For the first time we are pleased to offer The Print Center Gallery Store Award, a two-year contract for representation in the Gallery Store to Al Wachlin, Jr.

We thank Ingrid Schaffner for selecting the material award recipients: the Aperture Award (two year subscription) to Carl Marin for Beginning at the End; the Museo Fine Arts Award ($350) to Chris Heard for RAPT/ure 3; The Photo Review Award (one year subscription) to Keliy Anderson-Staley for Earthways Lodge in Winter, Canaan, Maine from the series Off the Grid; and the Silicon Gallery Fine Art Print Award ($250) to Chelsea Guglielmino for Kid A Kid B.

At the age of ninety-five, The Print Center takes a liberal and expansive approach to our support of printmaking and photography as vital contemporary arts as we encourage the appreciation of the printed image in all its forms. The Print Center is an internationally recognized organization providing opportunities for artists to exhibit, exchange ideas and sell work, through group and solo exhibitions, the Annual International Competition, The Print Center Series of continuing education programs and The Print Center Gallery Store. I extend our deepest gratitude to all of the outstanding artists whom submitted work for this year’s competition, and to juror Ingrid Schaffner for making the 84th Annual International Competition: Photography a thought-provoking exhibition.

Juror’s Statement

As a curator, it’s all in a day’s work to respond to seeing a lot of art by making a small selection. The forty photographs by as many artists on view at The Print Center were chosen from the over two thousand images I looked at by 543 artists who submitted work for online review in the 84th Annual International Competition: Photography. Pause for a moment to absorb how many clicks of the mouse this represents: first to see every picture, then to actually go through a selection process of winnowing it all down to as many pictures seem like will fit in the gallery. I’m not angling for pity here—a little sympathy perhaps—but simply offering some perspective on a relatively brutal process.

And what does this selection represent? Again, as a curator I’m in the business of looking for images that strike me as relevant to some larger context or conversation within contemporary culture and are remarkable, exceptional, outstanding, arresting in their own right. To the first criteria, one might attribute this exhibition’s imagery of impure landscapes (dotted with cell phone towers, surveillance cameras, suburban sprawl), displaced animals (deer are everywhere, for example), homey technology (a rapt face illuminated by a computer screen) and communal life (a tribe of surfers at rest). As an index of the whole, there was in fact almost no abstract photography, but lots of constructed imagery (staged tableaux and identities). A sense of theatricality, sometimes camp, was also on display.

In terms of the second criteria, my selection gives credence to resonance: some pictures just got stuck in my own mind. We all have our predilections and mine include narrativity, ambiguous subjects, framing devices, reflections, drawing and squirrels. With this exhibition, I found myself especially drawn to compositions in which there is a field of vision, as opposed to a focal point. Go figure.

Finally, as is always the case with a juried show, there is the frustrating fact that one cannot see the actual objects. Craft is part of every art and it’s hard to discern when one is looking at pictures of photographs on a computer screen. Come delivery of the actual works at installation time, every juror may find that they misjudged some work’s materiality, scale, quality and ambition; that’s just part of the show. I have picked perhaps a few too many works for the space, but I like what this allowed me to create as a whole: an exhibition of photography that is very much a picture show, one that moves from frame to frame, around the walls of two small galleries, awhirl with images, like a whack zoetrope. Turning the tables, I put it to you as a viewer: what do you see in this selection? What are your criteria? What image resonates most in your mind’s eye?
